

START

Now, Igor?

FREDERICK

Abby

Yes master?

IGOR

Abby

(as HE grabs two chairs)

FREDERICK

Abby

May I have a word with you, please?

IGOR

I'm al

Yes, Master. I always have time for you.

FREDERICK

Are yo

Sit down, won't you?

tall, fc

Thank you.

IGOR

HE

HE takes a seat on the floor.

Is that

FREDERICK

ING

No, no...up here, on the chair.

SOL

IGOR

THE

(as HE sits in the chair next to FREDERICK)

What's

Thank you!

FREDERICK

It's sorr

Now, Igor, that brain that you brought me, was it the brain of the late Hans Delbruck, the brilliant scholar and mild-mannered saint who wouldn't hurt a fly?

It must

IGOR

Not exactly. You see I dropped his brain all splat on the floor, so I took another one. Anyway, Herr Delbruck's brain was small, had too many ridges on it. I got a way better one, twice as big, smooove, with not a wrinkle in it.

Dammit

FREDERICK

HE re

Ah, good. Now we're getting somewhere. So would you please tell me whose brain I did put in?

We mus

IGOR

laborato

You promise you won't be angry if I tell you?

FREDERICK

#9b - He

I will not... be... angry.

Yes, mast

IGOR

Abby someone.

Are you l

FREDERICK

Abby someone. Abby who?

IGOR

Abby normal.

FREDERICK

Abby normal?

IGOR

I'm almost certain that was the name.

FREDERICK

Are you telling me that you let me put an abnormal brain into an almost seven-foot-tall, four-foot-wide gorilla!

HE grabs IGOR and begins choking him.

Is that what you're telling me! ← END

INGA and FRAU BLUCHER rush to break them apart.

SOUND: We hear the sound of someone banging the upstairs knockers.

THEY all freeze. FREDERICK still choking IGOR.

What's that?

INGA

It's someone upstairs at the front door!

FRAU BLUCHER

It must be the villagers.

FREDERICK

Dammit! We cannot let them in and discover what we're up to. We must hurry.

HE releases IGOR and begins to exit, followed by INGA and IGOR.

We must quickly change our clothes so as to not look like we've been working in a laboratory. Good start. Igor?

#9b - He Was My Boyfriend-Reprise

IGOR

Yes, master?

FREDERICK

Are you hurt?